BOTH WERE KILLED.

He Avenged His Sister's Wrong But Was Killed by the False Lover.

HENDERSON, Ky., July 29.—A duel to the death took place on the depot platform at Erin, Tenn., on Saturday night. Allen Oleott had deserted Miss Virginia Reed on the evening of their appointed marriage and fled to Tennessee from Southern Kentucky. About 10 days ago Robert Reed, a brother of the girl, learning that Oleott had gone to relatives at Erin, Tenn., armed himself and started in pursuit.

He met Oleott, and under cover of his pistol, compelled him to walk toward the depot, with the intention of taking a train to Kentucky and marrying his sister.

When within a few yards of the station Oleott drew his revolver and fired a ball into Reed's body, who dropped to the ground, but retained sufficient vitality to discharge a shot through Oleott's brain, causing instant death. Reed died an hour later.

"DARE DEVIL DICK" THEIR IDEAL.

A New Rochelle Lad says He is the Head of a Gang of Burgars.

NEW YORK, July 29.—Burglaries have been frequent in New Rochelle of late, and on Saturday night Gardiner Morgan, in the heart of the town, was robbed for the second time within a month. Among the things taken was a bicycle belonging to Mr. Morgan's young son, and the loss of the wheel made the boy very sad. Thinking that the police had not done much toward capturing the thieves who had been at work for weeks, he started yesterday morning to see if he could get a clew of his despoilers. Without paying much attention to the road he was taking, he soon found himself opposite Tom Paine's monument, and there, leaning against the railing, was a bicycle the counterpart of his own, even to the number. He waited for further developments and pretty soon 11-year-old Philip Leiffeld appeared, mounting the wheel, gaily rode away. Young Morgan told the police of his discovery, and Leiffeld was arrested. The lad stoutly maintained that he had bought the wheel with his own money, but his father, John Leiffeld, a wholesale dealer in cigars, who lives at 41 Lawson street, said his son had told him that he had borrowed the bicycle from a friend.

When the boy saw that there was no chance of escape he admitted that he had stolen the wheel and added that he was the leader of the gang of burglars that had committed all of the recent burglaries in New Rochelle. He said his partners were the Skiff brothers, John and James, and Willie Murray, the eldest of whom is 12 years old. Philip is known to have been a very persistent reader of the little yellow-covered books that tell of the exploits of the James brothers, "Dare-Devil Dick," "Bob, the Boy Sleuth," and other noted criminals. He organized the gang, the other members of which are equally fond of the trash that was sold to boys, and they used to all sit up in an unused barn and read to each other by candle light. If gangs got along in the West, why could they not do as well in the East? was the inspiring thought of the children, and with this idea in their heads they banded themselves together, and took a strong and terrible oath and started out for plunder.

The first place attacked was George Taylor's jewelry store. The boys gained an entrance through a rear window and picked up all the jewelry lying in the cases. The stuff was hidden, and the members of the gang were quiet for a week. Then they paid a visit to the house of Gardiner Morgan and made away with a roll of bills and several revolvers, the latter being just what they needed to complete their outfit. Next they broke into the butcher shop of Joseph Hoffmeister, and cleaned out the money drawer. A week after the grocery store of W. L. Reynolds was visited, and a few days later there was an attack upon the money drawer of John Lacount's laundry. The last robbery was at Mr. Morgan's. The police say the robberies appeared to have been skillfully planned and executed and the work of experts. The other members of the gang heard of the arrest of their leader and disappeared.

LOST IN OTSEGO LAKE.

Three People and a Book Agent Drowned From a Rowboat.

COOPERSTOWN, July 29.—Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Edwards, their 8-year-old son and a book agent whose name is unknown, were drowned at about noon today off Hutter's Point, five and a half miles up Otsego lake. The party had left the house of the Edwards family, about four miles from here, to row the agent across the lake to Hyde Hall, about eight miles from here. They were seen by several parties after they had started, but the accident was unobserved, as it occurred at about the hour when campers and others up the lake were eating their dinner. At about 12:30 o'clock in the afternoon their empty boat was seen by campers, floating in the lake with the party in the water clinging to it, about a third of a mile from the shore. A number of rowboats and a steam launch immediately went to the rescue, but when they reached the scene only the hats of Mr. Edwards and his son, a note book, evidently the property of the book agent, and an empty whiskey bottle were all the boat contained. The lake is being dragged for the bodies.
